Little Huskerville Boy Drowns In Slough

Over Two Hours Of Artificial Respiration Fails To Revive 8-Year-Old Teddy Forester

An eight year boy, Teddy Forester, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Forester, 181-A Huskerville, accidentally drowned in a six-foot mud and water slough Wednesday afternoon at the north end of Huskerville.

The youth was pronounced dead by Dr. Elmer T. Hobbs at 3:10 p. m. after a two and one-half hour struggle by firemen and residents in the area to revive him through artificial respiration and with a resuscitator.

Teddy, his brother Billy, 6, and three other youths were playing along the bank of the water hole looking for frogs and tadpoles. One of the boys, Gerald McVey, 9, 181-B Huskerville, related how the group had finished looking for the frogs and started home when Teddy decided to return to get what they had caught.

The Forester boy, said young McVey, fell down a high bank and into the water. He tried to swim but just started sinking.

The McVey youth ran some 100 yards to the nearest street where he stopped a car driven by Leonard Tobkin, 13-D Huskerville. Tobkin returned to the scene and waded into the water over his hips to pull the Forester boy to shore.

All Under
"The boy was completely submerged in the water when I got there," said Tobkin. "As near as I can figure it, he must have been in the hole about seven minutes."

Tobkin said he estimated it must have been about 12:35 p. m. when the youth fell in.

Tobkin and three men from the navy base applied artificial respiration until the fire department arrived with their resuscitator. The artificial respiration was carried on for the last two hours by Buford Johnson, Y.M.C.A. athletic instructor who lives at Huskerville.

Seven Tanks Used
The resuscitator was removed from the boy at 3:15 p. m. after more than seven tanks of oxygen had been administered. According to Mrs. Forester the five boys had started out for the Huskerville playground, catch tadpoles in water holes, but one of the boys suggested the deeper slough. In the group besides the three mentioned were Wayne Clover, 7, 1189-A in Huskerville and his brother Robert, 11.

Mrs. Forester said Teddy was being treated for a heart ailment. He was in the second grade at Lakeview school. His father is employed by the Peterson Construction company. Mr. Forester was at his mother's home in Valentine, Neb., at the time of the accident.

Teddy was born in Lincoln and was a member of the Huskerville community church.

He is survived by his parents and a brother, William Alan; grandparents, Mrs. Arthur Bowring, of Merriman, Neb., and Mrs. Mary McDaniel, of Polk, Neb.; and great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gary, of Lincoln.

Aga Khan Says Won't Mix In Son's Romance

LONDON—(INS)—Multi-millionaire Aga Khan said Wednesday "it is too bad" about the smothered romance of Rita Hayworth and his son, Aly, but added he has "no intention" of trying to repair the marriage.

"These things happen," he said in an interview.

"But I never meddle in other people's personal affairs." Actress Rita Hayworth has announced her intention of getting a divorce from the wealthy son of the wealthy Moslem father. She also wants $3,000,000 trust fund from Aly for their daughter, Yasmin.

Hwachon Dam Won By Allies

Reds Fight Back Hard; Rain Drenches Front

TOKYO—(Thursday)—(AP)—Allied troops again won control of Hwachon electric power reservoir in central Korea Wednesday by seizing the 275-foot-high dam, Eighth army reported today. The capture—against light resistance—put the allies right back where they were when the communists began the first of two reversed spring offensives in late April.

Allied patrols moved freely along the south rim of the 11-mile-long reservoir at points more than five miles north of Parallel 38 in central Korea.

Strong Resistance
Red assistance stiffened west and east of the reservoir.

Communist artillery and die-hard infantry slowed the allied advance in many sectors of the 125-mile rain-swept front.

Far behind the battlefield, American soldiers bowed their heads in a rain-drenched Memorial day services in a green hillside cemetery near Pusan. But on the fighting front, the phase of Chinese rearguard actions appeared ended. The enemy used artillery, mortars, captured bazookas and automatic weapons to knock out allied tanks slithering in the mud north of Parallel number 38.

Modest Gains in West
In the west allied gains ranged one to three miles against heavy communist resistance, an Eighth army communiqué said.

A report from Formosa said Russia recently turned over more than 100 new T-34 tanks to the Chinese at Mukden, Manchuria. Some 1,200 Russian red army men were reported assigned to the Chinese reds as advisers.

$50 Each Given Police, Firemen For Sunday Fire

The police and fire departments have received $50 each, for their work in trying to save the life of Joseph Delphia, who perished in the Italian Village fire Sunday morning.

Tony Domino, owner and operator of the east O street supper club which burned savagely for three hours, said the money was to go to the police department's benefit association and the firemen's relief association in "appreciation of their splendid work."

Parks Are Full As Lincolmites Enjoy Holiday

Lincoln's parks and recreation centers were overflowing with Memorial day crowds Wednesday.

Picnickers found the weather ideal. Many persons had to eat their lunches on the ground, since tables were taken early in the day. Many people from small towns chose the day to hold family reunions.

The zoo in Antelope park was filled with holiday crowds eager to "see the monkeys" and the other animals. Fishing and boating enthusiasts at Oak Park lake found the weather just right for sporting activities.

The park department reported that the holiday crowds had been "good," since no driving on the grass or destruction of property was reported.

The state 4-H club convention ended its day's activities with a dance in Antelope park, while the Urban League held its annual picnic in the same park.

Fire Damages Building Roof

A clothes closet and roof fire at 1141 Dawes was extinguished by Lincoln firemen Wednesday night after "considerable" damages had been incurred.

The alarm was turned in when smoke was seen pouring from the home, owned by Miss Ramona Phillips. The blaze started in the closet and spread up under the roof. The closet was badly charred.

Several hundred spectators watched firemen battle the blaze. Assistant Fire Chief J. G. Schmidt said "considerable" damage was done in the fire, the origin of which was undetermined.

Lincoln Is Still High In Country For Auto Safety

CHICAGO—(P)—Automobile deaths took their first drop in 16 months in April, and the National Safety council pondered whether the campaign to postpone the death of the nation's million traffic deaths was responsible.

Traffic deaths in April totaled 2,560. This was 3 per cent under last year's April total.

Leading cities in each population group for the first four months of 1951 included Lincoln, Neb., in the 50,000 to 100,000 class. It was one of three cities of that class with no deaths.

FLOWER BEDECKED CEMETERY—This view of Wyuka cemetery, peacefully beautiful with its decorated graves, was taken Wednesday afternoon, after the formal ceremonies which honored the dead were finished. Pictures and stories of Lincoln's Memorial Day services appear on Pages 8, 15 and 20. (Star Photo.)

Death Toll For Holiday Drops

(By the Associated Press)
The one-day Memorial holiday looks as if it might set a safety record for a national day of relaxation.

By late Wednesday afternoon, 45 traffic deaths were recorded. The National Safety council predicted a toll of 110. The council issued a statement late Wednesday saying the record was "a marvelous achievement and shows what can be done."

"Let's keep it up until everybody is safe at home," Ned Dearborn, council president urged. The heavy going-home traffic was yet to come.

If the traffic toll should be held to 92, it would be the lowest for any holiday since World War II. The only other to go below 100 was New Year's of 1946, when the total was 93.

The deaths occurred between 6 p. m. (local time) Tuesday and midnight Wednesday night.

Highway crashes, as usual, were the chief accidental killers. Deaths from all accidents, including traffic, totaled 72, 14 of them drownings and 13 miscellaneous accidents.

Kerr Says GOP Independents To Switch In '52

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.) said Wednesday night if there is any political coalition in 1952 it is likely to be between democrats and "independent republicans."

Kerr's statement was made in a weekly message to Oklahoma voters as reports circulated that William M. Boyle, Jr., the democratic national chairman, has urged President Truman not to undertake any "whistle stop" tours this year.

Associates of Mr. Truman said that in Boyle's opinion the administration's stock is rising and the president ought to save his efforts for 1952.

Kerr said he found at a meeting of the democratic national committee in Denver last week that the party is much more united than it was in 1948 "and come 1952 I believe they will really be rolling with a solid front."

"If there's any 'coalition,' it will develop between a united democracy and the independent elements of the republican party," Kerr declared.

Tornado Upsets Car; One Killed

IMPERIAL—(AP)—One man was killed in a tornado which struck 14 miles east of here Wednesday.

The Chase county sheriff radioed the state safety patrol that the dead man had been in a car which was picked up by the wind and dumped on its top.

The sheriff said all phone lines were down.

Red Agents Prey On P.O.W. Families

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) said Wednesday night that communists in this country are preying on the anguish of families of captured U. S. troops in Korea in an attempt "to sell them red propaganda."

Keating termed it "a new and insidious communist technique for impairing morale on the home front."

The New York legislator said in a broadcast he has received information that red agents are contacting families of servicemen reported missing in action and arranging them to receive letters or broadcasts from their imprisoned husbands or sons.

As one counter measure he suggested the armed services might relax their rules to relay even unofficial and fragmentary information on captured men to their families. And he wanted action against the red agents who make the contacts.

Sherman Testifies:

U.N. Now Favors A Blockade

Move To Squeeze Red China Out Of War Seen

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Adm. Sherman testified Wednesday that the United States now strongly favors a United Nations naval blockade of Red China and is taking steps to have it put in effect.

The chief of naval operations also disclosed that he sought to prevent Gen. MacArthur's dismissal and had urged that Defense Secretary Marshall be sent to Tokyo to "straighten things out" with the Far East commander.

Sherman told senators investigating MacArthur's removal that "steps are being taken" in the U. N. to authorize a naval blockade which he said would squeeze the Chinese communists out of the Korean war.

But he emphasized that he does not believe the U. S. should undertake such a blockade alone, lest it results in war with Russia. He declared his belief that Russia would "respect" a U. N. blockade.

Sec. Acheson Next
The admiral's testimony indicated a sharp policy change. Marshall, early in the MacArthur hearings, testified that a naval blockade was only an academic question because of action in the U. N. aimed at throttling the Chinese reds by economic embargo.

Sherman testified at an unusual forces-foreign relations committee. He returns to the stand Thursday. Secretary of State Acheson testifies Friday. The committee announced that Acheson will be followed by former Defense Secretary Louis Johnson.

Highlights of Sherman's testimony included:

1. He said he agreed with MacArthur that a naval blockade of Red China would be one of the chief weapons in defeating the Chinese reds, but emphasized that the U. S. should undertake it only with the backing and aid of the U. N.

2. Sherman disclosed that when the admiral testified that he had agreed with MacArthur that a naval blockade of Red China would be one of the chief weapons in defeating the Chinese reds, but emphasized that the U. S. should undertake it only with the backing and aid of the U. N.

3. Sherman disclosed that when the admiral testified that he had agreed with MacArthur that a naval blockade of Red China would be one of the chief weapons in defeating the Chinese reds, but emphasized that the U. S. should undertake it only with the backing and aid of the U. N.

4. Sherman disclosed that when the admiral testified that he had agreed with MacArthur that a naval blockade of Red China would be one of the chief weapons in defeating the Chinese reds, but emphasized that the U. S. should undertake it only with the backing and aid of the U. N.

Twelve Are Injured; Over Million Dollars Damages Suffered In North Platte Valley

(Special To The Star)

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb.—A Memorial Day tornado, with winds clocked at up to 95 miles an hour, slashed southwestward through over 30 miles of the North Platte valley Wednesday afternoon, causing over a million dollars in damage and injuring at least 12 persons. There were no reported deaths or serious injuries.

The big damage was to crops and buildings. The newly risen sugar beet crop suffered heavily from both wind and baseball-sized hailstones. Buildings for many miles were blown down and damaged.

Injured were 10 Mexican nationals, all beet workers, a motorist who reportedly stepped out of his car at the peak of the storm, and a man at Minatare. None were hurt seriously. The Mexicans, who were hospitalized here, were all in a small building on a farm where they worked. The building was lifted from its foundation.

The storm formed about two miles north of here and travelled southwest, striking the Scottsbluff airport. From there it headed down the valley, hitting Minatare, Bayard, Bridgeport, and Northport.

It apparently blew itself out thereafter or turned northeastward into more sparsely populated territory.

Bayard Hit Hard
Damage was reported heavy all along the track. At Bayard a hotel, the high school, and many other buildings were damaged. The Lambert hatchery and the Bayard bandstand were reported destroyed, and the Great Western Sugar company factory was damaged. A farm truck was demolished when struck by a blanket of falling bricks from the hotel.

Communication facilities were practically disrupted as wires and poles came down before the wind and branches from trees tangled wires still up. The only telephone and telegraph outlet from this city Wednesday night was westward, through Denver.

The twister followed long enough after Memorial Day festivities so that most people were off the streets. What had dawned as a bright, still day worked gradually into a windy one through the morning, observers told The Star.

The storm scattered picnicers and boaters at Lake Minatare, 12 miles west, but no casualties were reported there.

Cars Stalled
Many cars were stalled along the valley's main highway, U. S. 26, and after the storm subsided many were forced to leave the road because of tangled wires on the pavement.

At least one freakish incident was reported to The Star. Three unidentified Mexican nationals, who live and work on the Phil Slagler farm a mile and a half north of here lost everything they owned including the clothes they wore. Their shack was carried away with all their belongings, and the howling wind denuded them at the same time. The Slaglers took them in.

Damage at the airport included a roof torn from a hangar, that to planes stacked-out and a blown in wall and smashed glass at the weather station.

Forty buildings on the Otto Juergens farm two miles west of Minatare were blown down and only the home somewhat damaged, was left standing. The farm covers a 60-section area.

Little Damage In Town
In Scottsbluff itself damage was limited to blown down tree limbs and telephone lines. Some rain accompanied the storm.

The terrific force of the winds "pushed" a two by four board through a bull on the Juergens farm.

At the same place a truck, car and tractor were left heaped in one pile.

Mr. and Mrs. Yale Cavett were in the basement of the Juergens farm home at the time the storm struck. The winds sucked the air from the basement, forcing the couple to return upstairs in order to breathe.

Civil Aeronautics Authority workers in the Scottsbluff weather station were forced to abandon their posts at 1:36 p. m. (MST) as the storm approached. They resumed operation at 3:20 p. m. (MST).

However, the tornado blew down a wall of the weather station, which is located at the airport.

Scottsbluff's .14 of an inch was the only precipitation reported in the state during the afternoon. Maximum temperatures included Sidney 87, Scottsbluff and Omaha 85, Lincoln 84, Grand Island 82, Burwell 79 and Chadron 65.

Donated Work Completing 'Miss Liberty'

SPENDING THEIR MEMORIAL DAY HOLIDAY at work were the above group which is part of the many who have volunteered their time to construct the foundation for the replica of the Statue of Liberty that will be erected at Twenty-seventh and A. The statue is being donated to the city by the Cornhusker Council, Boy Scouts of America. (Star Photo.)

With the spirit that made America free a large number of Lincolmites and business firms are rapidly completing a lasting monument to freedom at Twenty-seventh and A streets.

Those individuals and concerns are donating their time and efforts to beautify that corner of Antelope park with an exact replica of the original statue of liberty on Bedloe's island in New York harbor.

The original, donated to the United States by the French Republic in the 1870's, has since been an inspiration to millions who have come from foreign shores to make their home and raise their families in this "land of liberty."

"Liberty, as a state of freedom," says the Encyclopaedia Britannica, "is especially opposed to political subjection, imprisonment or slavery."

Does it mean anything, though, to the average American? The Twenty-seventh and A statue says it does, for the 5-foot, 6-inch replica was made possible by the pennies, nickels and dimes donated by all the Boy Scouts of Lincoln.

And the 11 pointed star foundation, in theory a bastion of defense from all angles, and the square stone foundation on which the statue will be placed Thursday is a direct result of that same spirit.

The labor for its construction was donated by Bricklayers Local No. 2, Assenmacher Construction company and Union Construction company. Costly brick and stone was given by the Western Brick and Supply company. Werner Meyers has served gratis as engineer, Francis Libershal as superintendent of construction and Clarence Lagoni as job supervisor.

Dulles Asks For 'Skillfully Applied Pressure' Against Reds

TUCSON, Ariz.—(AP)—John Foster Dulles declared Tuesday night that Russia's capacity to carry on half-war indefinitely can be quickly destroyed "by skillfully applied pressures."

The republican foreign policy adviser, without going into details about such pressures, called on the free nations to plan "in terms of our strength and our opponent's weaknesses."

Despotic societies "always look more formidable than they are," he said in an address prepared for commencement exercises at the University of Arizona.

Dulles is one of Secretary of State Acheson's top advisers. He is now assigned to completing a Japanese peace treaty this summer in the face of communist opposition. Next week-end he goes to London for talks with British officials.

Try to Impair Unity.

Dulles declared: "It seems that the Soviet communist party, through its foreign affiliates, can continue indefinitely to impair internal unity and security within the free nations, and, wherever convenient, use strikes, sabotage and terrorism to break down orderly government."

Yet Dulles said he was confident "that we shall find the ways to paralyze the slimy, octopus-like tentacles that reach out from Moscow to suck our life blood."

He suggested three principles as basic to a solution of the problem of the free world:

1. The free nations "must have patience and steadiness of will . . . Most defeats are inflicted upon those who have first suffered the self defeat of discouragement."
2. Do not be satisfied with plans "which reflect merely a defensive mood." When an opponent is mounting a big offensive it is necessary to throw him off balance . . . deny him "untroubled leisure to consolidate his gains."
3. The planning of the free nations should "in terms of our strength and our opponent's weakness, rather than in terms of our opponent's strength."

"We need not dance to the tune of Russian strength," he said, "we are sufficiently versatile to invent some tunes of our own."

Offensive Mood.

"2. Do not be satisfied with plans "which reflect merely a defensive mood." When an opponent is mounting a big offensive it is necessary to throw him off balance . . . deny him "untroubled leisure to consolidate his gains."

Dulles added that "we must not and will not take the military offensive of general war, in which there could be no victory for anyone . . . The cause of human liberty can find positive expression "without the use of atom bombs."

3. The planning of the free nations should "in terms of our strength and our opponent's weakness, rather than in terms of our opponent's strength."

"We need not dance to the tune of Russian strength," he said, "we are sufficiently versatile to invent some tunes of our own."

Two New Officers Join Police Force

The Lincoln police department has added two new officers to its staff and hired four new clerical assistants, Chief Joseph T. Carroll announced.

Rex Hoy, who worked as an officer for six months in 1949, has been assigned to cruiser car duty and will serve full time while finishing graduate work at the University of Nebraska.

Alfred Gerlach, 36, of 629 South Eighth has been in training for more than a week, assisting the day jailer and learning police procedure.

The matron's post left vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Lucille Roxberg is still unfilled. Hugo Fritts, parking meter mechanic, has resigned but will perform part time work for the department. Radio Technician Fred Lautzenheiser is employed under this same agreement.

The resignation of several women, who serve as switchboard operators and clerks in the record bureau has made necessary the hiring of four new employees, Chief Carroll said. All the new clerks have been under training for several days.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

BY WALTER KIERNAN
(Distributed by International News Serv.)

The tax committees have decided to exempt straight-edge razors from taxation and I understand some consideration will be given to high button shoes and ox yokes.

Walter Kiernan

When I hand - crank telephones and spare parts for a Maxwell a reburetor also will ride tax free has not been decided.

But what a relief to know that we can buy the razor strops we want, gloriously tax free . . . except where there are state or local taxes.

Meanwhile the house has rushed a bill prohibiting the beating of a penny to nickel size or the pounding of a nickel to quarter size . . . In other words, the taxpayer is not to attempt to enlarge the purchasing power of the coinage system on his own just because he has a sledge hammer.

Washington seems to feel that the nickel has taken enough of a beating and should be permitted to go on as it is . . . an interesting souvenir of vanished purchasing power.

Funny no one ever told us ten years ago that in the "Glorious World of Tomorrow" most of us wouldn't be able to afford the glory.

Sakhalin's Buildup Is Reds' Pride

MOSCOW — The Russians are pushing their development of Sakhalin island, just north of Japan, Soviet press reports say. The southern half of this island was Japanese until the end of World War II.

Red Fleet, Soviet naval newspaper, says oil wells around Okha in the northern part of the island are a great success. Modern equipment has been installed and high grade oil produced.

The same article says island coal production is also being expanded and costs have been reduced, especially around Aleksandrovsk. It goes on to describe farm and fishing projects. Fish pumps are being used and farms have much more livestock, Red Fleet says. Fur farming is growing in importance, it adds.

The article also stresses cultural activity. There are many new technical schools, four new theaters and a philharmonic orchestra. There are 132 movie houses, seven city and 13 country newspapers. Libraries, museums and hospitals also are mentioned.

Many Russians have moved to the island since World War II. It is believed they have had a vital role in its economic development, Red Fleet says that much new housing has been built there, presumably to take care of the new settlers.

Big Business Is Accused By CIO Of Bribe Try

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A cotton trade spokesman told congress Wednesday that price ceilings do "terrific harm" to the nation's economy and urged the lawmakers to let the curbs die June 30.

His testimony to the senate banking committee collided head on with CIO views presented to the committee just ahead of him. The CIO accused big business of trying to bribe labor to join in a "sneaky" conspiracy to control the cotton market and grab what they can from the public.

Expires At End of June
The committee is working on a bill proposed by the administration to broaden and extend the defense production act, carrying wage-price authority and most other parts of the defense emergency powers. The present act expires at the end of next month.

The cotton business view was presented by William R. Blake of Memphis, Tenn. executive vice president of the National Cotton Council.

CIO Secretary - Treasurer James B. Carey gave labor's side.

Escapee Flushed From Field After He Wrecks Car

An 18-year-old reformatory inmate's 19 days of freedom came to an end Tuesday night after he had hidden in a farmer's field all day following the wreck of a car he had stolen.

The escapee, Harold L. Fredrickson of Omaha, was returned to the reformatory about 9:30 Tuesday night after being treated for minor injuries suffered when he lost control of the speeding car on a curve on highway 34 about six miles northwest of Lincoln.

Fredrickson told reformatory Superintendent George Morris he spent his freedom in Omaha and Iowa. He was headed for California in a car stolen at Omaha when the accident occurred.

The youth was discovered Tuesday evening by Roy F. Doudney, Route 2, and turned over to the safety patrol.

He was serving a two-year term for breaking and entering. He was sentenced from Douglas county Sept. 1, 1950.

COLUMBUS — Newly elected president of the Columbus Lions club is Forest Corn. He succeeds Donald Crozier. Other officers are Clarence Wilken, first vice-president; G. E. Glass Sandwiches Help U.S. Airmen

TOLEDO, O. — (INS) — "Hot Sandwiches" are rolling off the production lines of one company engaged in defense work.

Only these won't make good eating—they're a contribution of one segment of the glass industry to air safety, explained Dr. George B. Watkins, research director at Libby - Owens - Ford Glass Co., which produces them.

Instead of being the ham on rye variety, these are multi-deck sandwiches of clear plate glass and polyvinyl butyral plastic on Electrapane glass that will eventually protect American airmen and planes.

Egg Use
NEW YORK — (INS) — If you'd like to spend less time in the kitchen these lovely spring days, make use of eggs. Tender, tasty omelettes and scrambled eggs make excellent lunch and supper dishes in a jiffy. They also can help ease the food budget in these days of high meat prices. Two eggs can be used instead of a serving of meat, for equivalent protein value.

Good Turn Brought Fresh Pretzel Twist

LITITZ, Pa.—(INS)—A good turn rather than a twist was reported as the origin of the American pretzel.

The legend of origin harks back to the days of the Civil war when an itinerant baker sought temporary work in the shop of Baker Rausch.

Now Rausch baked light flavorful pretzels for which the Pennsylvania Dutch were famous.

Several large creameries in the United States have found through experiments that clay tile floors have less bacteria count than other flooring material.

Pole-Flier Charles Blair Makes Casual Non-Stop Alaska-New York Hop

Thursday, May 31, 1951 THE LINCOLN STAR 3

THAT'S MY POP—Year-old Christopher Blair sits with his dad, airlines Capt. Charles Blair, at International airport, New York City, after the non-stop flight Wednesday from Fairbanks, Alaska. Capt. Blair Tuesday flew non-stop over the North Pole to Alaska from Norway. (AP Wirephoto Wednesday Night.)

NEW YORK — (AP)—Charles Blair climaxed his historic flight across the North Pole by flying non-stop Wednesday from Alaska as casually as a holiday motorist.

"It is awfully easy to fly across the top," said the first man ever to solo over the North Pole in a single-engine plane—easier, he added, than crossing the North Atlantic by air.

But the 41-year-old airline pilot added: "It was a fairly easy flight but I wouldn't want to do it again. Once is enough."

He touched down here at 2:40 p. m. (CST), ending a trail-blazing 8,750 mile hop that began Tuesday in Norway.

Blair was cagey about the purpose of the flight, but admitted the U. S. air force is interested in any navigational or operational "dope" he picked up.

"Even an airline would find it easy to fly over the pole," he said.

He sipped a soft drink as he talked to newsmen. He wore a tweed jacket and brown slacks, as though just back from a holiday jaunt. He also wore three wrist watches—in case one or two failed.

Blair made the flight while on a month's vacation.

Before he goes back to his job with Pan-American World Airways, he said "I am going to get a little sleep."

He flew the same plane non-stop from New York to London last Jan. 31 in seven hours, 48 minutes—a record time.

Blair said he ate only a beef sandwich during the nine hour, 31 minute trip from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Idlewild international airport here.

He said he averaged from 375 to 380 miles an hour on the 3-450 mile hop from Alaska. He left Fairbanks at 6:09 a. m. (EST) Wednesday.

Blair left Norway Tuesday, covering 3,300 miles to Fairbanks in his flame-red, white-tipped plane in 10 hours, 27 minutes.

Then he refueled the converted Mustang fighter—"The Flying Gas Tank"—before he set out for New York and home. He lives at Port Washington on Long Island.

The plane set down gracefully to the cheers of a throng of spectators.

Blair stepped over to his wife, Janice, who was waiting with their 14-month-old son, Christopher, and took the boy in his arms.

Blair flew around 25,000 feet and ran into temperatures over the pole as cold as 25 below zero.

But coming in from Alaska, he said, it was so warm he didn't even bother to turn on his cockpit heater.

He carried 3,000 letters with him across the pole. They were cancelled at Fairbanks and loaded back on the plane to be auctioned off in New York for the Damon Runyon cancer fund.

Nearing The Close?

There is no indication when the hearings now in progress before the senate armed services and foreign relations committees relative to Far Eastern policy will come to a close. Hundreds of thousands of words have been put into the record already.

There is this conclusion to be drawn. The hearings have provided a liberal education for the American people and they are the better for it. They understand the cross-currents of the Orient. They now know that the steps taken in Korea and elsewhere in the Far East were arrived at only after long deliberate thought upon all of the factors to be taken into consideration. Finally the joint chiefs of staff, starting with General Bradley, followed by General Collins and Air Force Commander Vandenberg, have made a great contribution to America's peace of mind in restoring public confidence in their capacity and competency to deal with affairs in the Far East.

Probably this latter is the greatest single immediate good to come from the hearings. It provides a foundation for restoring American unity—the nation's one single greatest need. Whether it will be possible to revive bi-partisan foreign policy in the spirit that prevailed prior to the long illness and ultimate death of the late Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, remains yet to be seen. Senator Vandenberg was the architect of that bi-partisan foreign policy, the man who gave it practical vigor and force, and there seems to be no replacement for him. But at least the hearings have resulted in one great contribution. The majority of the American people now understand that the decision to remove General MacArthur from Pacific command was not dictated by petty politics, or cheap partisanship, but was necessitated solely because MacArthur was in sharp conflict with the joint chiefs of staff. And the public also understands that the objection to MacArthur's plan of strategy in the conduct of the war in Korea rested upon an honest, genuine belief on the part of the chiefs of staff that to follow him was to gamble dangerously upon a major global war for which the American people are not prepared.

What additional purposes can be served by dragging the hearings out interminably are open to question. Admiral Sherman of the joint chiefs of staff was examined Wednesday. Now if, in the wisdom of the committees, additional witnesses are needed, they can be summoned, including possibly some of the newspaper men who have been covering developments in Korea and in the Far East. The weight of evidence thus far sustains President Truman and his joint chiefs of staff—rejects General MacArthur.

Lincoln's Financial Needs

Only one of more than a score of noble elms lining the first central parking area in Lincoln shows the slightest sign of life. The reference is to the central parking on A Street, between Eighth and Twentieth. Perhaps one of these miracles in the life of trees will put in an appearance but the outlook is not good. And their loss will be a severe one, for trees of the size and beauty of these do not grow overnight.

At the close of the week while riding through a South Lincoln residential area covering a little more than six blocks, we made mental note of the number of elm trees on both sides of the street, devastated by the cankerworms. There were 96 trees completely bare of foliage, some of them bringing reminders of the dead of winter. Ninety per cent of those trees were in the spaces between the sidewalks and the curbs, an area over which the city itself exercises authority.

This is only one of innumerable illustrations tions of neglect. The city council can say that its hands are tied, that it lacks the funds to perform work urgently needed. True, it appropriated $7,000 for spraying but it waited so long that most of the damage is done, and while the spraying may have put a crimp in next year's crop, it contributed very little to minimizing the damage inflicted in this present season.

There is the promise of a campaign of education relative to Lincoln's financial needs in connection with the charter proposals to be submitted at a special election. The material is available—an endless amount of material, and we trust that it will receive the attention it richly deserves. The cankerworm scourge is only one link in a long chain of developments pointing to the fact that if Lincoln is to accept its responsibilities, it must provide more revenue for city government.

The Youngster In School

On the eve of Memorial Day, there were two letters on the desk of the editor, both dealing with the same subject, the recently enacted legislation in Nebraska requiring those on the public payrolls in the various political subdivisions of government, more particularly the teacher, to file an oath expressing their loyalty and support of American institutions of government. Both letters expressed doubts upon the wisdom of the oath law.

tion of the United States or the constitutions of the sister commonwealths.

The second letter directs attention to teaching methods in American schools. It quotes from an article by Thomas J. Shelley, a teacher in the Yonkers high school in New York. Mr. Shelley wrote in part as follows:

"When one of the brighter or harder-working pupils makes a grade of 95 on a test, I suggest that I take away 50 points and give them to a student who has made only 55 points on the test. This each would contribute according to his ability and, since both would have a passing mark—each would receive according to his need. (Repeatedly the communist creed in action). After I have juggled the grades of all the other pupils in this fashion, the result is usually a 'common ownership' grade of between 75 and 80—the minimum needed for passing or for survival. Then I speculate with the pupils as to the probable results if I actually used the socialist theory for grading papers. First, the highly productive pupils and they are always a minority in school as well as in life—soon would lose all incentive for producing. Second, the less productive pupils—a majority in school as elsewhere—would, for a time, be relieved from the necessity to study or to produce. The socialist-communist system would continue until the high producers had sunk—or had been driven down to the level of the low producers. At that point in order for anyone to survive, the authority would have no alternative but to begin a system of compulsory labor and punishment against even the low producers."

Well, this teaching technique brings the discussion of communism down from out of the skies so that American youth may easily understand the great fallacy of communism. We are inclined to believe American schools and American teachers are doing a magnificent job, and in many cases have been subjected to unjust criticism. Back to this matter of oaths, the real communist will have no hesitation in falsely swearing to anything. And that is the true futility of trying to safeguard institutions of freedom by the requirement of an oath. Freedom flourishes only when it is enshrined in the hearts and the minds of its people. And that clearly requires a climate where there is a genuine freedom for the mind.

Britain's New Emigrants

The small island of Britain, bursting at the seams with more than 50 million inhabitants, has been quietly undergoing one of the greatest mass migrations of modern times. Almost three-quarters of a million Britons have left the Isles since the end of World War II, bound for the new promised lands—Canada, Australia and New Zealand. It is an exodus which is taking British citizens from a tight little island to vast unpopulated areas and natural resources awaiting the hand of man to take them from the earth.

Britain is only slightly larger than the state of Oregon, and would be a sitting duck for atomic bombs in the event of war. Perhaps this has something to do with the desire of hundreds of thousands to slip out of English ports, and perhaps the present state of living, ineffectively termed "austerity," also has something to do with it. But most emigrants express an eagerness for a new life, a pioneer experience, a chance in the New World.

This, it should be remembered, was the same motivation which brought many thousands of English colonists to America in its earliest days. The United States made good use of this stock, and there is no reason why the nations of the British commonwealth should not also prosper with the twentieth century British emigrants.

Mr., You Said It!

"Mr. Republican," who has been re-named "Mr. Incongruous" through the courtesy of a national magazine, was asked this week whom he would like to see as the democratic candidate for president. "I," said Senator Taft, "haven't any voice in their selection." This can be added to other nominations for first prize in the understatement-of-the-year sweepstakes.

—Washington Merry-Go-Round— WHERRY COMPLAINING BITTERLY ABOUT SNUB FROM GEN. MACARTHUR

By DREW PEARSON

—A STATEMENT—

The following joint statement by Charles E. Wilson, defense mobilization director, and Eric Johnston, economic stabilization administrator, was forwarded to The Lincoln Star by the Bell syndicate. In fairness to the men involved, The Star is glad to publish it today.

We read today an article by a columnist (published May 23) who said that "A smoldering, sometimes bitter, feud has been raging" between us. We join in saying that there is no feud whatever "racing" between us, let alone a "smoldering, sometimes bitter" one. We mutually respect each other as partners on the mobilization team.

We are working together as friendly colleagues in an effort to contribute to the solution of the great problems facing the country. We condemn as a disservice to the country any false attempt to show that there is dissension in the defense mobilization program.

The statements concerning Sidney Weinberg are equally untrue, as also are many other assertions in the column.

WASHINGTON — President Truman, talking to a friend from San Francisco the other day, hinted that he would soon be making a whistle-stop campaign through California. The friend had warned that Mr. Truman had better come out to California soon.

"That's in the cards," the president promptly replied. "That's in the cards."

Then, as an afterthought, he asked why he was needed in California. "You're in trouble out there, Mr. President," the friend replied, "as a result of MacArthur's visit."

"Oh, that'll be all right," was Truman's humorous comeback. "California's composed of crackpots from Kansas, Iowa and Missouri—like me. Once I get out there and talk their language, they'll get back in line."

—SNUBBED SENATOR—

Busby Sen. Ken Wherry of Nebraska is complaining bitterly about the way he has been snubbed by General MacArthur, the man for whom he has gone to bat so vigorously.

What irks Ken is that Senators Knowland of California, Bridges of New Hampshire and Taft of Ohio, all republicans, are in frequent touch with MacArthur, while his spokesmen, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, telephoned questions to them to shoot at Gen Omar Bradley and Gen. Joe Collins, when they were on the witness stand.

In contrast, Senator Wherry was turned down when he tried to see MacArthur in New York, and hasn't yet been able to get him on the telephone. You can't blame him for feeling just a little bit in the cold.

BAFFLING BEHAVIOR OF NEHRU REFLECTS INDIA'S DIFFICULTIES

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—That farthest away of all places, Tibet, is once again in the news. If the Chinese communist radio can be believed, and there is good reason to think that this time it is telling approximately the truth, this remote "roof of the world" is now behind the Iron Curtain.

The news recalls an evening in New Delhi, India, last October. In a sitting room in the huge official residence in which he lives, Prime Minister Nehru was talking about communist China. With the eloquence and the brilliance that are so much a part of this figure who stands symbolically torn between East and West, Nehru expressed his belief that the regime in Peiping would necessarily be preoccupied with the overwhelming task of reconstruction inside China.

The first hints had begun to appear in the press that Chinese communist troops were about to march on Tibet. I had suggested to Nehru that a regime bedeviled with problems inside the country might seek to distract attention by military adventures beyond the borders. Military conquerors have always found it difficult to stop and consolidate their gains once they have achieved their initial goal.

Furthermore, behind the crude boasting and the poise claims made by the brass, raw regime in Peiping was, it seemed to me, an element of deep insecurity. Having come to power through war and revolution, Mao Tse-tung and the men around him were fearful that they would be driven out again by force and violence. Just as Russia has felt compelled to surround herself by satellites to try to secure her own borders, so the communist Chinese are compelled to continue their conquests.

But Nehru, speaking in that beautifully modulated voice with the accent that is neither Cambridge nor Anglo-Indian, rejected any such notion. The Chinese had to overcome the ravages of 30 years of almost constant upheaval. They had so much to do at home that it was inconceivable they would deliberately seek foreign adventure.

Strangely enough at the same time Nehru had been talking about the threat of communist Chinese intervention in the war in Korea as the United Nations armies moved across the 38th parallel. He had passed the warning on to London and Washington and it had been received in Washington at least,

President Truman, has been pulling frantic wires on Capitol Hill to prevent the senate labor committee from making public a report on the railroad strike criticizing him.

Steelman has been pleading and cajoling that the report be rewritten or suppressed. Chairman of the senate labor committee, Jim Murray of Montana, is a great friend of the White House, and ordinarily would not level criticism at one of Truman's aides. In this case, however, Steelman is charged with being responsible for the off-again, on-again White House policy which confused the nation last year and helped precipitate the railroad strike.

This column has obtained a copy of the senate report which Dr. Steelman wants suppressed, and it's easy to see why he doesn't like it. Here are some purple passages:

"Dr. Steelman allowed himself to become involved in the dispute in a manner which compromised his effectiveness and which threatens to embarrass the White House. It is an unwritten rule in the profession that mediators will not... become arbitrators in the same dispute. In the opinion of the senate committee, he (Steelman) made himself a vulnerable target."

The above referred to the fact that Steelman wrote himself into the railroad agreements as arbitrator in case of future misunderstandings between the railroads and the brotherhoods.

The senate committee also suggests that Steelman was untruthful when he advised the president that the brotherhoods had promised not to strike. "The committee finds," says the report, "that no such promise had been given."

All in all, for a man who likes to get along with folks, as big John does, the report puts him in rather a bad light with a large segment of society.

—LADY SENATOR—

It is supposed to be an office secret, but the lady who runs Sen. Pat McCarran's office, attractive Eva Adams, now has ambitions to become a senator from Nevada herself. Miss Adams has been badgering her boss, McCarran, to support her in the 1952 election against his Nevada colleague, GOP Sen. George "Molly" Malone.

Miss Adams has secretly coveted Malone's seat for some time, and even put herself through law school at nights until, last year, she passed both the District of Columbia and Nevada bar examinations. She is the perfect, competent, former dean of women at Nevada university, but for the past 10 years she has been McCarran's secretary. Those close to McCarran's office also say she can twist the senator around her finger.

(Copyright, 1951, by Bell Syndicate)

with considerable skepticism. But the prime minister continued to believe that the Chinese would in some way make good on their threat if United States troops continued their advance into North Korea.

He was right about that. He was wrong about Tibet. That vastness in the high Himalayas with all its strategic importance looking down on India and Pakistan and menacing the border areas where the communist peril is already greatest, will now be closed to the non-communist world.

This is a serious loss and there is no reason to minimize it. How it might have been prevented, given the difficulties of distance and the primitive nature of the country, is something else again.

Nehru talked on through the stillness of the Indian night and it seemed to me that as he discussed the grave internal problems of the Chinese government in Peiping, he was in reality speaking of his own fantastically difficult task. He is trying to make a modern democratic state out of India with the odds heavily against success.

His vacillation, his uncertainty in turning first one way and then another, can be explained in part by the burden he carries in a country with almost as many internal problems, growing out of war and revolutionary upheaval, as in China. Nehru has shown in recent months a remarkable facility for making confused and confusing statements on foreign policy. These statements have angered many in Washington and they contributed to the delay in passage of the loan under which India will be able to obtain urgently needed grain.

That loan now seems on the way to approval and without the hampering restrictions that would have made it unacceptable to the Indian government. A house majority, including both republicans and democrats, acted with maturity and understanding in the face of provocative statements from those who were determined to kill the loan-to-India bill if not by direction then by indirect action.

In spite of the sometimes baffling behavior of Nehru, it is vital to try to help India through this difficult period. There are very definite limitations on what America can do. But everything possible should be done that is reasonably possible within those limits. This becomes all the more important in view of what has happened in Tibet.

'We Are The People'... Whizzing Wheelchairs And Running Children

By BEVERLY LARSEN

AT THE ORTHOPEDIC HOSPITAL... Marilyn Bruner, Beverly Hastings, Della Estrada and Marlene Fitzgerald... They're "friends just like anything."

No white walls or hushed corridors... no overwhelming odor of antiseptics greet a visitor at the door of the Lincoln Orthopedic hospital at Eleventh and South streets.

Instead, there are voices from the girls' ward on the first floor, whizzing wheelchairs and running children. In the cheerful green room with the flowers and big television sets, there are happy children engaged in all sorts of activities.

Near the window, Karen Grudzinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grudzinski of Aurora, was busily scribbling in her color book. Karen, who has been coming to the hospital off and on since she was a baby, excitedly related the antics of a clown from the Shrine circus who had come to the hospital.

"He 'bout scared me," she confided. But then, Karen is too old to admit being afraid of this funny man. "I'm almost six," the brown-haired moppet said proudly.

Then there was Marlene Fitzgerald, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Fitzgerald of Gothenberg, who has retained her sweet disposition despite the fact she has been in the hospital since the latter part of 1948.

Another shy little girl, Marilyn Bruner, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruner of Nickerson, said she liked television best of all. Her answer to all questions was a big smile and a modest "Yeah." Marilyn, who is tutored with Karen by a visiting teacher, has a big doll to keep her smiling.

There isn't much silence in the ward with three "older" girls around. Della Estrada, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Estrada of Bridgeport, is a mischievous child who always is thinking up pranks. Beverly Hastings, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kapustka of Broken Bow, is her partner. Another member of the group, Ethel Ryan, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Ryan of Mitchell, was getting special treatment when The Star photographer came around.

The three girls, as Beverly explained, are "friends just like anything."

Feel sorry for themselves? Not these girls. Beverly, who had polio when she was 3, feels sorry for one of her brothers.

"I'm the only one that got polio," she said. "But my poor brother Art got kicked by a horse. I'll bet that hurt."

PAYING FOR ITSELF

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In his letter on LB 504 (Saturday, May 26) B. S. Keck is so right on all points except that of how the expense of a board for reappraising property for taxation would be paid. In actual fact the expense would fall on the taxpayer of the county whether the board be appointed by the governor or by the county commissioners. Under LB 504 the expense would first be paid out of a state tax appraisal board revolving fund. Then the state tax levy in Lancaster county would be increased enough each year to repay the revolving fund. The truth is that the expense of the board provided for by LB 504 would be greater than that of a board appointed by the county commissioners, for it would deal with not only real estate but also all personal property, both tangible and intangible, and would be at work continuously the year around. However, experience shows that the added expense would pay for itself many times over and be well worth while.

L. E. AYLESWORTH.

UNJUSTIFIED CRITICISM

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Every president of the United States is subjected to terrible abuse by his opponents, but it seems to me that President Truman has been getting quite a bit of unnecessary and unjustified "smearing" these days. What this country needs, and needs badly, is unity. It doesn't matter if we are democrats or republicans when it comes to foreign policy, since it was started as a bi-partisan foreign policy and remains so today except for those few republicans who want to make political capital out of the situation. If we all stick together, making rational criticism and readjustment when needed, we will come through this present difficulty just as we have come through all others in our history.

OLD OBSERVER

HOUSING BANDWAGON

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of the Lincoln Star: I could not agree more with your stand on public housing, and it is obvious that the city council made a very bad blunder a few months ago in turning down the proposal for public housing units in Lincoln. Now, when the need is so pressing that any fool can see its necessity, we find all the old opponents trying to jump on the bandwagon. This is what I have to say:

"If it is right to have 700 public housing units in Lincoln today, it was right a few months ago. If it was wrong to have public housing in Lincoln several months ago, it is still wrong today."

Nothing has changed, except that the blind wanted to stop it several months ago (socialistic, against free enterprise and that kind of nonsense) and now when the need is desperate, they don't want to have the label they deserve pinned on them.

St. Theresa Pupils Told Men Equal

St. Theresa students were told at graduation ceremonies Wednesday afternoon that man is equal by creation, redemption, and mass judgement, although there may be differences in economic, language, social, or intellectual levels.

Rev. Edward C. Tuckey, pastor of Holy Rosary church at Plattsmouth, gave the commencement address. He told the young men and women that "to be a good American, we must accept our charter documents, such as the Declaration of Independence, in the spirit and historic setting in which they were given."

"Our democracy is based on thoroughly Christian principles," he said.

Rev. Mitchell M. Kaczmarek awarded the diplomas.

High scholarship awards were given to:

Ninth grade: Mary Sandra Rice, valedictorian, and Celeste Champoux, salutatorian.

Eighth grade: Cecelia Carter.

Seventh grade: Marcia Schammel and John Kellogg.

Sixth grade: Ray Locke and Shane Riten.

Fifth grade: Janet Larsen and Michael Weiland.

Fourth grade: Julie Elliott and Pat Murphy.

Third grade: Catherine Origer and Robert Stricker.

Second grade: Ann Marie Semlin and John Gordon.

First grade: Mary Anderson and Norman Lyons.

A special certificate of merit and membership in the National Latin society was awarded to Yvonne Mutchie for maintaining a 90 per cent average during her school years.

Five Boy Scouts received Ad Altare Dei awards for completing 250 hours of altar service and passing examinations in the study of religion.

They are:

Craig Richardson, John Kellogg, Norman Howe, Robert Eastman, Paul Michal.

Graduates are:

Celeste Champoux, Richard Eddy, Fred Schneider, Jack Card.

United Air Line Pilots Threaten To Walk Out

DENVER—(INS)—A meeting has been called in Denver Thursday which union representatives of United Air Line pilots say may be the final negotiations before a general strike is called.

Capt. H. L. Jackson, a pilot, said Wednesday that at a meeting in Chicago Tuesday it was "generally accepted that there is little hope for a peaceful settlement of this dispute over general working conditions and basic wages."

No date has been set for the strike, but the pilots notified David C. Davis, Denver aviation director, last Saturday that a walkout might start this week.

Refusal of the pilots to fly the United Air Line's new DC-6B planes, which were scheduled to go into service April 29, at pay rates offered by the company, has served as an issue to bring the dispute to a head.

105-Year-Old Vet Makes A Boast

NORFOLK, Va. — (AP) — An old man nodded peacefully in the back seat of a shiny red convertible in Elmwood cemetery here Wednesday. He was the only one on hand to represent his fallen Confederate comrades.

At the age of 105, William Joshua Bush of Georgia, flown here from Jacksonville, Fla. for the 61st and final reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, was determined to be on hand for the Memorial day speeches.

The only other member of the surviving 12 veterans here for the reunion, William D. Townsend of Olla, La., stuck it out through the parade. But the muggy heat was a bit too much for his 105 years.

He retired to his hotel just before the ceremony in the cemetery got underway.

But "General" Bush stuck it out as a somewhat indirect means of making good on the boast he

4-H Youths Spend Holiday Touring Arbor Lodge

Nine Busloads Of Youngsters On Excursion

BY HOMER FINE.
(Farm Editor, The Star.)

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb.—Nine big busloads of 4-H club members swarmed over the old home of Nebraska City's J. Sterling Morton Wednesday in observance of Memorial day. The 325 4-H clubbers made the trip from Lincoln, where they are attending state 4-H club week.

The nine buses left Lincoln at 1 p.m. for the trip to Arbor Lodge and left there at 4 p.m. for the return trip to Lincoln, where a picnic and party awaited only the presence of the eager boys and girls. The 4-H club members were having themselves a good time the second day of their "week."

Admire Furnishings.

Girls made their way into the Morton mansion to goggle at the pictures lining the walls and at the solid furniture. Typical of the comments on the lavishly furnished rooms: "Oh gee!"

For the boys there were pictures of pioneers and old soldiers—a few that even recalled memories of pirates. There were swords, spurs and old pistols and rifles, Indian costumes, head dresses and artifacts such as bows and arrows.

The rolling hills, orchards and far-reaching views of southeastern Nebraska and the grounds of Arbor Lodge were a treat for many of the 4-H club members who hail from more level areas of the state.

Inspect Vehicles.

For both boys and girls, as well as nine bus drivers, a hand full of county agents and 4-H leaders, the Arbor Lodge carriage house held a great deal of interest. Most curious about the big Morton carriages was the height one had to climb to board the vehicle—more like a tractor than a car.

The well-oiled condition of the sets of harness hanging in the

Scottsbluff, Morrill Each Have Polio Case

GERING, Neb. (AP). Scottsbluff county health authorities have reported two police cases—both small children.

In a Scottsbluff hospital and in good condition are Henry J. Godina, 2, Scottsbluff, and Consuelo Bilerial, 3, Morrill. They are the fourth and fifth polio cases in the county since the first of the year.

carriage house was noted by more than one.

Many of the boys and girls walked down the hill to inspect the statue of J. Sterling Morton. In such a group was the indistinguishable twins, Judy and Ruby Wright, who made the trip to state 4-H week from Dawes county with County Agent Harry Kuska.

A high point in Thursday's program will be an inspection trip through the state capitol at Lincoln. Friday the 4-H clubbers will tour Omaha, and Saturday it is back home to ranches and farms in nearly every county in Nebraska.

Willow Creek Contracts Go To Omaha Firm

BILLINGS, Mont.—Construction contracts for Willow creek dam and the Flatiron pumping plant, both part of the Colorado-Big Thompson project, were awarded during April, according to a progress report of the interior Missouri basin field committee.

Total contract cost of the two structures is $3,535,065. An Omaha company, Peter Kiewit Sons, was awarded the $1,294,706 contract for Willow creek dam on Willow creek, which drains into the Colorado river below Grand dam. Storage at Willow creek dam, together with feeder canals and a pumping plant, the bureau of reclamation said, will provide additional water for diversion on the eastern slope of the Rockies. The contract for Flatiron pumping plant with its 63,000-kw power plant, totaling $2,240,359, was awarded to Winston Bros. company of Monrovia, Calif.

Butler Urges Franklin Canal Appropriations

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Butler (R-Neb.) has urged the senate appropriations committee to follow the lead of the house and approve starting of the Franklin canal on the Bostwick irrigation project along the Republican river in Nebraska and Kansas.

The 54 mile Franklin canal would parallel the Republican river from the Harlan county dam near Alma east to a point beyond Red Cloud.

Butler told the senate committee yesterday the canal has been classified as a "new start" by the budget bureau. For that reason it was ineligible for funds. But, Butler argued, the Franklin canal is an integral part of a joint construction program by the army engineers and the reclamation bureau which includes the Harlan dam and several irrigation projects.

The Franklin canal, he continued, "happens to be" the most important single canal in the whole system.

New Sidney Oil Area Continuing

SIDNEY, Neb. — (AP) — Watchful oil scouts should know within the next day or so whether a new producing area is to be opened up in Cheyenne county.

Drilling at the B. B. Carter-Lohr No. 1 wildcat six miles west and four north of Sidney passed the 4,500 foot mark, which means that coring was about ready to get under way.

The location is about four miles straight west of production in the Ohio Oil Co.'s Huntsman field. Two other wildcats have been drilled within a mile of it, both unsuccessfully.

Ohio has a substantial block of leases to the east and southeast of the Lohr property and probably would move in right away if oil is found there.

With abandonment of the Tilda Anderson No. 1 northeast of Sidney last week, the Lohr is the only wildcat now under way in Cheyenne county.

State Briefs

TAYLOR—Attending the next meeting of Highway 183 in Taylor June 11 will be Governor Val Peterson and State Engineer Fred Klietsch. Tal Conrad of Sargent is president of the Nebraska Highway 183 association.

HOLDREGE—Ralph H. Stratton of Holdrege is the new grand counselor of the Nebraska jurisdiction of the United Commercial Travelers. He is the third Holdrege man to be named head of this state group.

VERDIGRE—A plaque, honoring Verdigris veterans of both World wars, was dedicated here Memorial day, with Leo M. Williams, attorney, delivering the address. The plaque is set in a monument erected by the American Legion post.

Tecumseh Man Listed As Missing In Action

WASHINGTON, (AP). Pvt. Leonard H. Dorsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Dorsch of Tecumseh, Neb., is missing in action in the Korean area, the defense department said.

The department, in its 315th casualty list of the Korean fighting, said Cpl. Lawrence E. Davis, husband of Mrs. Phyllis M. Davis, Omaha, had been injured.

The National Geographic Society says nearly a third of Australia's people depend on sheep and wool for a living.

"I got the story on 50,000 Miles-No Wear and changed to New Conoco Super Motor Oil"

says Marshall Rousseau Police Sergeant Harlingen, Texas

"Driving at all kinds of speeds, I've piled up 30,000 miles," says Sgt. Rousseau. "I've used Conoco Super in my personal cars, and have had absolutely no engine trouble of any kind."

"50,000 Miles-No Wear!" Proved Here:

After a 50,000-mile test in blistering heat along the Mexican Border, with proper crankcase drains and regular care, engines lubricated with new Conoco Super Motor Oil showed no wear of any consequence; in fact, an average of less than one one-thousandth inch on cylinders and crankshafts.

AND gasoline mileage for the last 5,000 miles was actually 99.77% as good as for the first 5,000! This test proved that new Conoco Super, with OIL-PLATING, can make your car last longer, perform better, use less gasoline and oil.

62 British Miners All Believed Dead

EASINGTON, Eng. (AP). Rescue squads gave up all hope Wednesday night of saving 62 British miners entombed by an explosion 900 feet below ground.

They are all dead by now, Lord Hyndley, chairman of the state-run coal industry, announced. But the weary rescue squads kept on working.

The official statement that the 62 must be presumed lost brings the death toll in Tuesday's unexplained blast in the big Easington colliery to 81. It was the worst pit disaster since Britain nationalized the mines in 1947.

Seventeen bodies have been recovered. One man was brought out alive, but died later, and a rescue worker died Tuesday. There were no survivors.

United Nations Granaries Opened To Avert Famine Among South Korea Battered Civilians

BY STAN CARTER

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea—(Thursday)—(AP)—Korea's unfortunates of war—20,000,000 or more battered civilians crowded south of Parallel 38—have one consolation. They will not starve.

With United Nations help, the threat of famine has been averted for this year.

Kim, the Korean man-in-the-street, may not have the garlic and pork he likes. But he should have enough rice and staple foods this year.

Only last winter, when United Nations forces fell back all along the peninsula and there even were prospects of full-scale evacuation, mass starvation seemed inevitable.

But now the Chinese threat has been checked, the food outlook is good south of the old prewar boundary.

Barley Fields Green

Green fields of spring barley are prospering. Rice, the other staple of the Korean diet, is in the seedling stage. Friendly nations have donated shiploads of grain to help out until the rice harvest next fall.

Officers of the Eighth army civil assistance command, responsible for preventing disease and starvation among civilians say:

"We can't expect to get a normal economy here, but we can prevent starvation. If we can get the Koreans to enforce rationing strictly and see that there is no hoarding, there will be no hunger."

A combination of circumstances prevented the famine.

United Nations forces managed to keep the communists from taking over the fertile farm lands around Seoul. Weather and growing conditions have been so good that barley, planted haphazardly where the battle lines were fluid and then in many cases left to grow untended, has prospered.

No Famine for 25 Years

The nations of the United Nations have opened their granaries to provide foodstuffs, seed rice and fertilizer. The transportation situation has been better than expected for grain distribution.

There has been no famine in Korea for at least 25 years. Normally it is a rice exporting nation.

Civil assistance officers estimate the summer crop of grain—mostly barley, but some wheat and millet—will be 465,000 tons this year. That is 66 per cent of the 702,000 tons produced in 1947, which the officers say was a normal prewar year.

Sixty thousand tons of rice, barley and wheat have been arranged for in the United States and will arrive during June, July and August. A gift of 750 tons of rice recently arrived from Mexico.

The world's oldest known rocks, in Manitoba, are about 3.2 billion years old.

Marriage Is Solemnized On Wednesday Evening

Two hundred and fifty invitations were issued for the wedding of Miss Lois Marie Danielson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Danielson, and Harvey Otto Schulenberg of Scribner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schulenberg, also of Scribner, which was an event of Wednesday evening, May 30, at the Grace Methodist church.

The lines of the 8 o'clock ceremony were read by the Rev. Harold Sandall, minister of Grace Methodist, before a background of white gladioli and white peonies, arranged in pedestal baskets, and lighted candles in seven-branched candelabra. The candles, caught with greenery, lined the processional aisle.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Josephine Denison, organist, who presented a prelude of organ music as the guests assembled. Mrs. Denison also accompanied Miss Nancy Pecherer of Kearney, who sang, "Because," and "I Love Thee," preceding the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer," at the close of the benediction.

Sheer embroidered net, drifting over taffeta, was chosen for the costumes of the attendants including Mrs. Donald Anderson of Norfolk, the matron of honor who appeared in an apple green tone; the bridesmaids, Miss Irma Nelson of Mitchell, whose frock was in dusty pink, and Miss Rosalee Olsen of Minden, who appeared in a brilliant flame shade. The frocks, identically styled, were fashioned with snug sleeveless bodices, in which the necklines were high and rounded, and bouffant skirts of ballet length. All of the attendants wore Mary Queen of Scots bonnets, in shades to match their frocks, and completed their costumes with long, frock-toned mitts. They carried nosegays of carnations and sweetpeas.

Donald Anderson of Norfolk served Mr. Schulenberg as best man, and seating the guests were Ivan Schulenberg, John Tharp, Marvin Moeller and Roland Moeller, all of Scribner.

Appearing in a gown of candlelight satin, the bride was given in marriage by her father. A deep yoke of sheer marquisette was contoured with a bertha of Venice lace to create the off-shoulder effect in the fitted bodice that was completed with an Elizabethan point. The deep points were repeated at the wrists of the long sleeves. The soft folds of the skirt, designed with accentuated fullness, swirled into an aisle-wide train. Her veil of imported English illusion was fingertip length, and was held to the head with a Mary Queen of Scots bonnet of satin edged with minute pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of stephanotis and ivy strands, centered with a purple-throated white orchid.

For the reception, held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony, the serving table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake, encircled with pink sweetpeas, and appointed with tall tapers in candelabra. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Guy Vehrs, Mrs. C. K. Elliott, Mrs. Betty Corcker, Miss May Danielson, Miss Lillian Danielson, Mrs. Ryle Danielson, Mrs. William Blyth, Mrs. Howard Alexander, Mrs. Harry Ostergaard, Miss Mary Weirauch, Miss Kathy Garret, Miss Kathleen Roberts, Miss Patricia Johann, Miss Virginia Krevch, Miss Marie Dahl and Mrs. Stanley Volkens.

After a honeymoon trip to Kansas City and the Ozarks, for which Mrs. Schulenberg wore a beige checked suit, with brown and mauve accessories, Mr. Schulenberg and his bride will go to Scribner to reside.

Mrs. Schulenberg is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan university where she is a member of Delta Zeta sorority. For the past year she has been a member of the Scribner high school faculty.

Guess What—Weddings!

TO SAY THAT THE APPROACHING week-end seemed to be a popular one with brides would be a masterpiece of understatement—The entire month of June, as far as we are concerned, is dedicated to processional aisles, but we have our sleeves rolled up and ready to go.

THE WEEK-END HAS NUMEROUS ceremonies that will be of interest in Lincoln and out of town areas—Our Friday tells us that there are four weddings on that day—Miss Janet Harrington and Robert Knight; Miss Phyllis Haas and Donald Kendle; Miss Jeannette Armstrong and Dick Simonson—all in Lincoln, and Miss Marjorie Stapleton and Richard Olney, at Hickman.

ON SATURDAY EVENING, as you already know, the marriage of Miss Mary Sue Holland to Donald Bloom will be solemnized, and the ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Lincoln Country Club—Miss Jeanne Wood will marry Phil Agee of Darby, Pa., on that day, and Miss Janet Harrison has chosen Saturday, June 2, for her marriage to Robert Reichenbach.

Back at Annapolis, the marriage of Miss Gale Clinton of Coral Gables, Fla., and Ensign Richard Livingston of Plattsmouth will be solemnized, and up Stomberg way Miss Ann Scott will wed Stanley Thelander—And so it goes.

On Saturday of this week, Miss Taylor will be the honoree at a luncheon for which Mrs. Ted Lovetcheck, Mrs. Coral E. Brown, Mrs. C. F. McAdams, and Mrs. R. W. Reynolds will be hostesses at the University club. Following the luncheon the group will go to the home of Mrs. Reynolds for an afternoon of bridge, and Miss Taylor will be presented with a hostess gift.

Betrothal

MISS VIOLA CURRY
Mrs. Viola Curry is today announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Viola, to Miles J. Nerud, son of Mrs. Anna Nerud of Dorchester.

UNDERSTAND SOME VERY popular former Lincoln residents are arriving in Lincoln on Friday—Mrs. and Mrs. Howard Gramlich, who will be the week-end house guests of Mrs. Elmer Hansen. Mr. Gramlich comes, as you probably have heard, to be the speaker at the Innocents banquet on Saturday evening—and on Sunday there is his class breakfast.

But on Friday evening Mrs. Hansen will hold open house at her home for all friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gramlich.

CLASS REUNIONS and banquet speakers remind us of Dr. O. V. Calhoun—on Friday Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun will go to Mt. Pleasant, Ia., where Dr. Calhoun will attend a meeting of the trustees at Iowa Wesleyan university—and where he will be the speaker at his twenty-fifth class reunion banquet.

LEARNED, TOO, that Mrs. Neil Youmans of Scottsbluff is spending the week as the house guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Harris—and that she will be joined at the week-end by Mr. Youmans who will accompany her home.

THINGS WILL BE FESTIVE out Hillcrest way Saturday evening—The members will have a dinner in the Hawaiian Cruise manner—Planning the party is a committee composed of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Davie, chairman; Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Pierson, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Geisler.

This is the second dinner dance of the month at Hillcrest, but from now on there will be dining and dancing but once each month—that is, until the football season rolls around again.

Prenuptial Courtesies For June Bride

Miss Miriam Hicks, whose marriage to Charles W. Stewart will be solemnized on Sunday, June 3, was the honoree Tuesday evening when Mrs. Edward LeMay, Miss Jeanne Smith and Miss JoAnne Finney were hostesses at an informal dessert supper at the home of Mrs. LeMay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hill. Fifteen guests presented a miscellaneous shower to the bride-to-be.

On Wednesday evening, Miss Jo Jen Loder and Miss Jean Stevens entertained for Miss Hicks at a picnic supper. Fourteen guests were invited to the home of Miss Loder, and a hostess gift was presented to the honoree.

Miss Hicks, who has chosen her sister, Miss Marjorie Hicks, as her maid of honor, has announced the members of her bridal party. Bridesmatron will be Mrs. Edward LeMay, and Miss Jeanne Hyland, Miss Jeanne Smith and Miss JoAnn Finney will attend her as bridesmaids.

Thomas Stewart will serve his brother as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Sidney Wright, Ralph Wells, Jr., and Harry Keep, all of Lincoln, and Dick Asmussen of Neligh.

On Friday morning, Mrs. Clifford Hicks and her daughter, Miriam, will entertain the feminine members of the bridal party and those who will assist at the wedding reception, at an informal coffee and trossau party between the hours of 10 o'clock and 12 o'clock, to be held at the home of Mrs. Hicks.

Then following the wedding rehearsal Friday evening at the First Presbyterian church, Miss Hicks will share honors with Miss Jean Steven, who will become the bride of Dwight McCook, Jr., at an early fall ceremony, when Miss Pat Van Burg and Miss Halcyon Coble will be co-hostesses at an 8 o'clock dessert at the home of Miss Coble. Both brides-to-be will be presented with a hostess gift, and the fourteen guests will spend the evening hours informally.

Also included among the recent affairs honoring Miss Hicks was the picnic supper held last Monday evening for which members of the Hartley school faculty were hostesses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hill. The twenty guests presented a shower of "paper" gifts to Miss Hicks.

A pre-nuptial dinner honoring Miss Hicks and her fiancé will be held at 7 o'clock Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hicks will be host and hostess to twenty-four guests at the University Club, in courtesy to their daughter and Mr. Stewart.

Margaret Ellen Thomsen Weds Ralph Jerome Mapes

Peedestal urns were filled with white peonies, snapdragons and gladioli, and were combined with lighted cathedral candles in seven-branched candelabra for the chancel appointments at the Blessed Sacrament church where the marriage of Miss Margaret Ellen Thomsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon I. Thompson, to Ralph Jerome Mapes was solemnized on Wednesday morning, May 30. Lighted candles, caught with white satin bows centered with yellow daisies, marked the white carpeted processional aisle.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Smith of Sioux City, Ia., solemnized the 10 o'clock ceremony, and the wedding music was played by Miss Ethel Fritz, organist. Miss Fritz also accompanied Miss Patricia Hinds who sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

Mrs. Gordon Pauley or Long Beach, Cal., her sister's matron of honor, and the maid of honor, Miss Frances Robinson, wore alike frocks of white embossed oorgandy over pasteltone yellow taffeta. The snugly fitted bodices, designed with jewel necklines and brief cap sleeves, narrowed to slender waists, sashed with corded taffeta, above extremely bouffant, floor length skirts. The bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Trimble, Mrs. Thomas Podhaisky, Miss Kathleen Schreiber and Miss Jean Loudon, appeared in identical frocks of white oorgandy over the orchid tone, designed in the same mode as the frocks worn by the matron of honor and the maid of honor. Each of the attendants completed her costume with a frock-toned bonnet of oorgandy in the Godey mode. Each carried an empire bouquet of Esther Reed daisies, tinted to match their frocks.

Jack S. Mapes served his brother as best man, and the ushers included Ben Munson, Norman Lock, Larry Connelly, and Charles Hemmingsen of Auburn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a gown of white nylon net that had been worn by her sister, Mrs. Gordon L. Pauley, as a bride. The deep sheer yoke of the long-sleeved fitted bodice, was framed with a ruche of the net, embroidered, and finished with self-scallops. The ruffled motif, repeated to give a burst of fullness at the sides and back of the skirt, extended into a chapel length train. A calot of pleated marquisette held to the head her veil of illusion, and she carried a crescent bouquet of white cymbidium orchids.

For the honeymoon trip to Miami Beach, Fla., and other southern points Mrs. Mapes wore a navy blue faille suit, with navy and white accessories. Her going-away corsage was of white cymbidium orchids. After June 15 Mr. Mapes and his bride will be at home in Lincoln where the bridegroom is a member of The Star sports staff.

Mrs. Mapes attended the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and Pi Lambda Theta. Mr. Mapes also is a former student at the University of Nebraska and is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Lee Wallard Sets New Speed Mark In Winning '500'

First photo, the pits are alive with activity as crews make last-minute checks on the cars shortly before the race gets under way. Second cut, they're off. Thirty-three of the nation's fastest race cars. In the third photo, Lee Wallard, Altamont, N. Y., driver, flashes across the finish line in his Belanger Special to top the Classic in the record-breaking time of three hours, 57 minutes and 38 seconds. That's an average speed of 126.244 miles an hour. In the final shot, Wallard gets a kiss from his wife after his car rolled into victory lane. Looking on is actress Loretta Young. Wallard's trophy is in the background. (AP Wirephotos.)

Charles Gains Unanimous Nod Only Eight Cars In Race At End; Maxim Badly Battered As Ez Is Aggressor Throughout Bout

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles handed a stinging boxing lesson to inept light heavyweight champion Joe Maxim and won a unanimous decision in their 15-round bout at the Chicago stadium Wednesday night.

Charles, vicious and persistent, made his eighth title defense a sharp belting all the way against a wary and cautious-punching Maxim, who was bleeding and puffing at the finish.

There was no question that Maxim was outclassed in his attempt to dethrone the Cincinnati Negro who had beaten him three times previously before either was champion.

SMALL CROWD

Referee Frank Gilmer voted for Charles 78 to 72 and the two judges, Tommy Thomas and Ed Hintz, said it was 85 to 65 each.

The bout was watched by millions of television viewers, but less than 10,000 patrons were at the stadium.

Charles carried the fight to Maxim both at close range and in long distance exchanges. A half-hour after the fight, the battered Maxim was being administered oxygen and was mumbling incoherently to his handlers.

There were no knockdowns, although in the 13th round, Maxim was wrestled low by the persistent Charles after he was jolted by several whistling lefts.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Lee Wallard, a relaxed, grinning streak in a car of gold and black, won the 35th annual 500-mile Memorial Day Speedway race Wednesday at the ripe age of 40 and set a new track record for blazing automobile speed.

Wallard took the lead at the start, surrendered it to four others early in the race, regained it at 210 miles and held it all the rest of the way.

He drove the last 30 miles without one shock absorber. He said later he drove the last 50 miles without brakes—"But I didn't worry."

He averaged 126.244 miles per hour for the long, hot grind around the famous two and one half mile track.

Wallard's time was three hours, fifty seven minutes and 38.05 seconds. The first time the race has ever been run under four hours. The old speed mark was 121.327 set by Bill Holland in 1949.

25 FAIL FINISH

All six cars that completed the 500 miles bettered Holland's speed record.

Only one minor accident occurred, but the terrific pace forced 25 of the 33 starters to quit, an all time record.

Mauri Rose, twice a winner and also holder of one co-championship, rolled over in his car on the northeast turn when the right rear wheel collapsed, but he crawled out unhurt.

Mike Nazaruk finished second, two laps behind Wallard, and Jask McGrath's car, with Manuel Ayulo driving relief, was third.

NOT FAVORITE

The new Speedway champion, who has tried three times before to win this most precious of automobile racing crowns, was highly regarded before the race but was not among the top favorites.

This honor went to the team of Duke Nalon and Chet Miller, but Miller dropped out at 142 miles, and Nalon, although he won the race, had to quit at 380 miles.

Wallard hails from Altamont, N. Y. Nazaruk is from East Meadow, L. I., N. Y., and McGrath's home is Glendale, Calif.

The day was as scorching as the terrific speed of the gaudy little race cars, and a crowd of well over 100,000 sprawled all over the vast race course. The rain that was feared for a time never materialized.

It takes the statisticians a long time to figure out exactly how the speedway prizes are distributed, but Wallard won $15,800 in lap money, $20,000 for first prize and enough side prizes to bring the total well over $50,000.

ONE PIE STOP

Wallard had to make only one pit stop. His crew worked mechanical marvels to speed him on his way again. They changed the right front tire, refueled and patched the exhaust pipe all in one minute and 13 seconds.

Wallard started in the number two spot on the front row, thanks to a qualifying speed of 135.039, with Duke Nalon on the pole.

Setting right out to show his class, Wallard took the lead for the first three laps, surrendered it to Jack McGrath on the fourth, and then jockeyed with McGrath and Chet Miller for the first 50 miles of the race.

Wallard took the lead at 42 miles and held it straight through the 125 mile mark, at which point Jimmy Davies, a popular youngster on leave from the United States army, took over.

Davies, who eventually had to quit when his car's rear end went out, held the lead for 62 miles. Then Cecil Green

How They Finished

1. Lee Wallard, Altamont, N. Y., 126.244 miles per hour average (new track record), 124.745.
2. Mike Nazaruk, East Meadow, L. I., 123.302.
3. Jack McGrath, Glendale, Calif., driving relief, 124.745.
4. Henry Banks, Compton, Calif., 123.057.
5. Bob Hall, Phoenix, Ariz., 123.709.

7. Carl Furberg, Detroit (flagged after 485 miles).
8. Duane Carter, Detroit (flagged after 485 miles).
9. Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill. (stopped after 445 miles).
10. Duke Nalon, Sherman Oaks, Calif. (stopped after 377 1/2 miles).
(Both Bettenhausen and Nalon were stopped by mechanical trouble short of finishing. But were awarded ninth and tenth places since they came closer to finishing than any of the other cars forced out.)

The rest of the 33 starters and what happened to them:
Walt Faulkner, Long Beach, Calif., broken crankshaft, 307 1/2 miles; Johnny Parsons, Van Nuys, Calif., magneto failure, 217 1/2; Cecil Green, Houston, Texas, lost part, 209; Duke Blumner, Dayton, Ohio, overheating, 183 1/2; Chuck Stevenson, Fresno, Calif., fire, 227 1/2; Bill Schindler, Freeport, L. I., burned out connecting rod, 325.
Johnny McDowell, Santa Monica, Calif., broken gasoline tank, 35; Mauri Rose, South Bend, Ind., wreck, 312 1/2; Mack Helges, Burbank, Calif., broken piston, 45; George Connor, Los Angeles, broken universal, 72 1/2; Cliff Griffith, Indianapolis, stalled, 76 1/2; Sam Hanks, Glendale, Calif., skid, 335.
Joe James, Van Nuys, Calif., broken drive shaft, 20; Chet Miller, Glendale, Calif., stalled, 142 1/2; Walt Brown, Massapequa, N. Y., stalled, 137 1/2; Roger Ward, Los Angeles, broken oil line, 85; Freddy Akabashian, Albany, Calif., mechanical trouble, 37; Gene Force, Richmond, Ind., low oil pressure, 35.

TWO-LAP LEAD

The end of the race was clearly no contest. Wallard had better than two laps on Mike Nazaruk, and the big silver championship trophy was taken to his pit long before the race ended.

Movie star Loretta Young was waiting to kiss the happy Wallard who wound up the race by driving two extra laps. He finished standing up in his car and waving in jubilation.

Wallard drove this race exactly like he did in 1949 with one big difference. He started out that year in an old car and finished for 17 laps, only to have the fuel tank fall apart. This year he also gave his car a beating, but enough of the bright black machine with the gold number "99" on it held together.

Wallard is a native of Schenectady, N. Y., but now makes his home in Altamont, N. Y. He is married and the father of two children, Tamara, aged 7 and Leigh, 3 1/2. He has long been prominent as a dirt track and midwest racer but the big Indianapolis prize eluded him until Wednesday.

Two past Indianapolis winners started this race but neither finished.

ROSE SPILLED

The day's single accident took out Rose, and Johnny Parsons, the winner in 1950, quit with magneto failure at 217 miles.

Wallard drove the smallest, unspurred engine on the track—a Belanger Special with a piston displaced of 241 cubic inches. It was entered by Murrell Belanger of Crown Point, Ind.

The Speedway scene was a colorful one. Parked cars turned a large portion of the green infield into a mass of metal that twinkled in the sun.

At the curves, where the danger of accidents was greatest, many fans built crude platforms on their cars and trucks, and even climbed up to the trees.

The sun that poured down out of an almost cloudless sky forced nearly all the men to remove their coats. Their colorful shirts, with the bright-hued dresses of the women, made the long, low stands look like pastel crazy quilts.

Seeing Nellie Home

YOU wonder sometimes what keeps a team, composed of only mediocre ingredients, riding at a winning crest over teams with twice the talent.

Think of the Lincoln A's of a month ago, winning game after game on sheer hustle and pitching. You think of how eight injuries have all but folded Frank Skaff's spirited young men.

You think of the high-riding Chicago White Sox, sparked by that spunky tobacco-chewing little Sherman Field alum of 1947, Nellie Fox.

What's making this collection of cast-offs, old-timers and bargain basement talent click? Are they playing over their heads?

You might start with Nellie.

Here's a lad who has never hit over .255 in two years in the big time and, up to a week ago, had never hit a home run in the big leagues. He kept up there on guts, hustle and his sparkling fielding.

Look at Nellie today. His first homer won the Boston Red Sox opener in the 11th and he's hit two more since.

He's second high batsman in the slugging American league with a lofty .362 average. And folks are saying that he and Shortstop Chico Carrasquel form the smoothest keystone combination in baseball.

Davis J. Walsh, The Star's International News Service representative in Chicago, asked Manager Paul Richards of the Sox what caused that amazing 11-game all-victorious road trip against the elite of the American league.

AFTER pondering a long moment, Richards said it was Ed Robinson's climax hitting. He was probably just one-seventh right.

No argument about Robinson, of course. His three home runs and a profusion of runs batted in, which sent the young man almost to the head of the class in this category, made possible the Sox all-winning rush across hostile roadbeds.

Would you say, though, that Robinson's hitting was more significant than Joe Dobson's pitching, which turned up with a 3-0 record on the trip and four in a row?

Would you, in fact, want to place its significance too far ahead of the following:

Pitcher Howie Judson's magnificent seven-inning chores at the very start and the very finish of the trip.

Ed Stewart's grand-slam homer which brought the Sox up from behind to win the only game played at Yankee stadium—also the first game won there all year by anybody.

Carrasquel's shortstopping which was something out of the bizarre handicraft of the late Harry Houdini.

The wonderful hitting, hustle, team spirit and fielding of Fox.

RESTES Mino's hitting and base-running. In Boston, he scored from third base after Dom DiMaggio caught a ball not far back of second, and threw perfectly to the plate; in Cleveland, he scored after Dale Mitchell caught one about 30 feet back of the shortstop.

Al Zarilla's four runs batted in in Sunday's finale, to round out a season's harvest to date in which he has batted in 32 runs on 32 hits.

Nellie, in a telephone conversation with The Firing Line the other day, lists Manager Paul Richards as the first and foremost asset to this amazing rush.

"He changed my batting stance and showed me a lot of fine points that have helped me," said Nellie. "Just like me, he has improved a lot of players on the team."

THAT'S Country Club

Only Country Club is made from 2 fully aged beers . . .
one light, one dry. Result: mmm!
The Bright Beer!

Ever notice how eyes brighten, talk brightens, when the Country Club appears? There's something specially pleasing about this mellow, golden beer!
If you want to know the secret, it's the special way it's made . . .
Country Club, you see, is actually two beers in one! One beer is a light beer, complete and perfect in itself. One beer is a dry beer, brewed to perfection, too.
Together they make Country Club,
the bright beer!
Yes, for life's brighter moments there's nothing more enjoyable than Country Club!

Pleasant Moments in sports BY Bob Considine

FIRST UNASSISTED TRIPLE PLAY IN THE MAJORS

NEAL BALL was playing his first season with the Cleveland Indians in 1909. He was a good infielder, a good hitter—but no great star. And then one day, in ten breath-taking seconds, he leaped from obscurity into the Hall of Fame.
IT WAS IN THE SECOND IN-NING of an important game with the Red Sox. The Sox, with no outs, had men on first and second. Neal leaped up to grab a screaming line drive.
He touched second, retiring the first runner, and then ran down the other base-runner between first and second . . .
to retire the side with the first unassisted triple play in the major leagues.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Escape Perils Jobs

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Escape of one of five prisoners who engineered the plot has led to the possibility of mandatory retirement of all guards over 60 at Western State penitentiary here. Not long ago the five prisoners overpowered a 78-year-old guard. One of the men made his way to the roof, down an improvised rope and to the ground where he fled. The other four convicts were recaptured on the roof.

Prison officials said guards can retire at 60. They added they are checking personnel records of all guards to determine who should be retired. Most of the 110 guards on the staff, however, are World War II veterans.

New England Activity

PITTSFIELD, Mass. — (AP) — Who says New England communities are static?

A directory company, beginning its canvass for the 1952 directory for this city of 53,000, estimates it will have to make 30,000 changes in its existing data.

Of course, explains the representative of the H. A. Manning Co., of Springfield, that doesn't mean 30,000 people moved. When a family moves and is replaced by another, or when a business changes its address, or officers, there is often a chain-reaction of developments involving several entries.

Catholics Told Should Hold No Enmity Toward Any People

"America has fought and should keep on fighting for her belief in religious, industrial, educational and social freedoms, freedom of speech and of press."

This was the message given parishioners at memorial services in Calvary cemetery Wednesday morning by Rev. Edward Szezech, assistant pastor of Sacred Heart church.

"Although fighting for these precious rights," the Rev. Szezech emphasized, "we should hold no enmity toward any people. Hatred should not have a place in our lives."

A solemn pontifical mass was offered at the cemetery by Bishop Louis B. Kucera. Musical directors were Rt. Rev. Msgr. C. J. Riordan and Rev. Zygmund Rydz. Assistants at the open-air service were:

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas M. Kealy, assistant pastor;
Rt. Rev. Msgr. L. V. Barnes, assistant deacon.
Rt. Rev. Msgr. O. J. Schuster, assistant deacon.
Rev. Conrad Marzanna, deacon.
Rev. C. J. Reindorf, subdeacon.
Very Rev. Msgr. R. J. Collins, master of ceremonies.
Rev. R. B. Hain, master of ceremonies.

11 Refugees Are On Way To Make New Homes Here

Eleven refugees from Europe are expected to arrive or have arrived in Lincoln.

Nine of them have been sponsored by the Lutheran Resettlement service, which has sponsored approximately 1,000 persons brought to Nebraska.

Already here are Pauls Dirialo, a clerk and farmer, and Aleksandra Balyins, a dressmaker both from Latvia. They were sponsored by Catholic Charities, which has sponsored about 200 refugees in the Lincoln diocese.

Fourteen others are expected to arrive include Voldemars, Dagmara and Andris Lejnicks; Anna Sids; Anna, Janis and Alda Leitis, and Valdis and Ints Mucenicks.

Pauline Soenchors and Wanda Veronika Ramza, all of Latvia, stopped in Lincoln with the intention of staying here, but decided to go on to Washington where they have relatives.

Fourteen other refugees are expected to arrive in the state within the next two or three weeks. They include Edward Anna and Manfred Mozgiet; and Cestmir, Vera and Ljube Rozsypal, all of whom will live in Omaha; Heinrich Hopfeld, who will live in Aurora; Mrs. Juris Mangulis and Mrs. Irma Mangulis, who will be at the Hastings state hospital at Ingleside, and Eduard and Hilda Til, who will live at Pender.

Man Is Fined $10 After Street Fight

William B. Pillard, 25, 2000 West O, pleaded guilty in Municipal court to a charge of disturbing the peace by fighting and was fined $10 and costs. His alleged opponent in the street fight, however, pleaded not guilty.

Alva Martin, 35, of 1428 N entered the innocent plea and will stand trial June 6. He and Pillard were arrested Saturday night after police received word of a street brawl in front of a downtown tavern.

Civil Defense Instruction Given On Fire Equipment

Outdoor civil defense instruction was held at Oak Lake Monday night, and civil defense volunteers got instruction in handling fire department equipment.

Over 50 Lincoln men are enrolled in the training program, with the class divided into two groups. One meets Friday and the other Monday.

At Oak Lake the class wrestled with the fire department's heavy pressure hand hoses and watched Chief Feaster's men demonstrate their aerial water tower.

Bystander Hazards

WAKAW, Sask. — (AP) — Anton Terry, a motorcyclist from Quebec, was unhurt when his machine exploded here. But a woman who ran to call the fire department, Mrs. F. Mamchur, tripped and fell and needed hospital treatment.

Bracy Ends 2nd Year As Wesleyan Chancellor; Schedule A Busy One

Dr. Carl C. Bracy Tuesday completed his second year as chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan university.

And a check of his schedule shows that Dr. Bracy has been a busy man the past two years, both on and off the campus.

For instance, he traveled 30,000 miles by car and many thousands more by plane and train.

He had 69 public speaking engagements off the campus since Jan. 1, 1950.

He attended meetings of alumni groups and academic organizations all over the nation, including New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Denver, Nashville, Atlantic City and Cleveland.

All this was incidental to his on-campus work as chief administrative officer.

Dr. Bracy told the annual spring meeting of the board of trustees that his work "cannot be measured in terms of 'busyness' but in terms of effective planning for the future."

The surest way to financial success is through a home of your own and you will find some outstanding bargains under Class 82 "Homes for Sale."

Americans No Longer Deserve Reputation For Sharp Shooting

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Back in the old days when every American was a squirrel shooter, all you had to do was to hand a soldier a gun and you had a dandy rifleman.

Now all that may be changed. Paul Cardinal, staff writer for the "American Rifleman," has made a tour of army and marine camps to talk with veterans of the Korean war.

He gave his conclusions in an article for the June issue of the magazine, and later amplified them to a reporter. They are pretty well summed up in his first sentence:

Theory Take A Beating
"The theory that America is a nation of riflemen is taking a beating in Korea."

Here are some of the comments made to Cardinal:
"The average rifleman is not well trained, and will not fire in combat."

"The rifleman doesn't fire his weapon enough in training to gain confidence in it."

"He's afraid to fire because he will draw fire."

"Good shooting is the exception."

The army previously had taken notice of the non-shooting soldier.

Insufficient Training
Elton C. Fay, Associated Press military affairs reporter, wrote in a story recently that the army realizes:

"A significant number of infantrymen when actually engaged in combat fail to employ their individual weapons when observed and vulnerable targets (they) are within effective range."

The army listed a number of reasons for this failure, including the paralysis of fear, lack of confidence in the weapon, hoarding of ammunition, etc.

The army didn't mention the reason Cardinal stresses. He thinks the rifleman doesn't get enough training.

Caution Suggested In Municipal Switch To Social Security

The enabling act for municipal employees to draw from local retirement systems and obtain federal social security meets federal requirements for liquidating existing systems, according to an opinion given Philip K. Johnson, tax commissioner, by the attorney general.

It was suggested in the opinion that municipalities contemplating withdrawal from the municipal retirement system carefully consider their action. Before taking final action, it was suggested, that detailed plans be submitted to the tax commissioner to determine whether they are adequate.

In another opinion, it was held that employees in the department of classified part as eligible for teachers' retirement and others for social security.

Those actually engaged in teaching will be required to be classified as teachers while other employees can be classified as eligible for social security. Divisions were held to be the duty of the directing head of the department.

Peace Crusade Can Avert War, McMahon Says

HYDE PARK, N. Y. (AP)—Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) called Wednesday for a "peace crusade for peace and justice" which he said is "the only sane alternative to World War III."

Speaking at Memorial day services at the grave of the late President Roosevelt, he expressed the belief that "if given a chance, the light of truth will inevitably melt away the shams and frauds upon which the claims of communism are founded."

"Behind the ominous iron curtain," McMahon said in a prepared address, "there are countless millions of secret allies who hate war as much as we hate war. . . . Already there exists on a giant scale dissatisfaction, unrest and the sullen spirit of revolt among these imprisoned millions."

"If this spark is fanned by the winds of truth, I believe this may be the beginning of the end of Soviet despotism."

COUNTRY CLUB OF LINCOLN

Lincoln Residents Gather Under A Warm Sun To Pay Tribute To Their Dead

BY JIM LARSON
(Star Staff Writer)

This was Memorial Day in Lincoln, 1951.

From rows of graves made green by God, those who fought and died for freedom's sake rose to live again in the minds of men.

They came to accept the humble homage of the living. They came to remind man of the terrible price they have paid that we may speak our minds and worship God without fear.

They listened, silent in their hallowed homes, while taps echoed through the world above, while drums rolled and prayers were said.

They watched, as Lincolnites gathered in the bright sun-filled day under skies speckled with clouds to give them thanks for what they have done.

They saw the somber groups, standing beside their graves at Wyuka, Lincoln Memorial Park and Calvary.

As the sun started to climb, they saw wreaths thrown upon the waters of Wyuka's lagoon to honor their soldier dead.

Later, they heard the steps of the living as they moved into the Wyuka G.A.R. soldiers' circle, walking to the slow cadence of military drums.

There, Col. Henry C. Harper, officer of the day, read the general order designating May 30 as their day. Some 700 persons stood by.

An invocation was given by Rabbi Samuel H. Baron, South Street Temple.

Patriotic organizations placed wreaths on the monument dedicated to those who slept.

And L. Harold Hamlin, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said:

"It is our duty to honor the living as well as the dead who have sacrificed before us."

Then the living left.

Legion Holds Rites At Vets Hospital

Immediately following the Wyuka Memorial day ceremonies, Wednesday the American Legion drum and bugle corps and the Veterans of Foreign Wars color guard performed a flag-raising and playing of taps at the Veterans hospital.

Hospital Chaplain T. R. Jones pronounced invocation, after which the nearly 200 hospitalized veterans, their families, and friends listened to Legion corps play the "Star Spangled Banner," and the VFW firing squad release three volleys in honor of the war dead.

Many of the vets observed Memorial day from their beds, while others wheeled themselves onto the hospital veranda. Earlier in the morning, the hospital chaplain directed Memorial services over the public address system in the hospital.

Weather Ahead

The extended five day forecast for Nebraska: temperatures next five days will average 4-8 degrees below normal; normal maximum west 75; normal minimum west 48; east 54; cooler Thursday; followed by rising temperature Friday and Saturday and cooler again Sunday; precipitation will average from over 1 inch extreme eastern Nebraska to about 1/4 inch in western Nebraska; rainfall will occur as showers and scattered thunderstorms over most of the state Thursday and Thursday night and again about Saturday night or Sunday.

Dynamite Blast Kills Man And Grandson, 6

ESTHERVILLE, Ia. — (AP) — Richard Wulkow, 67, of Lytton, Ia., and his grandson, Paul Prentice, 6, were killed outright Wednesday in a dynamite explosion.

The explosion occurred on a farm eight miles southwest of Estherville. The farm is owned by Wulkow and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Prentice, parents of Paul.

Wulkow was blasting rocks in a field at the time of the tragedy. Sheriff Emet Twito, who investigated, said the dynamite exploded prematurely, apparently as the result of a defective fuse.

For tasty picnic suppers or outdoor games, these tables are tops. Built of 2" fir, 6 ft. long, 30" wide they have no equal at $16.95 the price.

Bellwood Couple Take Top Honors At Lamb Congress

(Special to The Star)

OMAHA—A young farmer and his wife from Bellwood, Neb., walked away with top honors in the annual lamb and wool congress here at stockyards Tuesday.

The couple is Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sims. They won both classes—in pens of five and pens of 25. The pen of 25 was from a Southdown Ram, purchased from Gene Zellinger of David City. That makes the lambs a Southdown-Western cross.

Other top winners in the pens of 25 class were Joe E. Lorenz of Crete, second, and Walter Stuh of York, third. The winners competed in a class of 13 pens.

The top blue ribbon lambs were sold at $30 per cwt. $2 premium over the day's market. Indicative of the quality of the year's show were the 97 lambs that were graded prime out of the top 100 in the 20 top ranking pens of five.

There were three firsts in the wool show. The champion fleece prize went to Orville Childs of Belleville, Kas., with a 19-pound quarter-blood fleece.

Winners of the top three places by classes were: quarter-blood first and second, Orville Childs; third, C. H. Morris of Cayuga; three-eighths, first, H. C. Busch of Bolus; second, Boys Town; third, Charles Otto of Ulysses; half-blood, first, Leslie Anderson of Clearwater (only one shown); fine, first Don Mabry of Omaha; second and third, Leslie Anderson.

"Sue Says"

I talked to Louise R— yesterday—she was really down in the dumps. She's unhappy (to put it mildly) with her job because she's doing the "same old thing every day." She just isn't satisfied with punching a machine, getting out mailings or mimeographing all day long. She wants to meet people, take a little responsibility and feel like she's important to her firm. Those are the things I like about my job as secretary—and I know why she would like them too.

Louise can have a position just like mine in only a few months—and I told her so. She can stay right in her present job and obtain her secretarial training in night classes at L.S.C. New classes start June 11 at the LINCOLN SCHOOL OF COMMERCIAL 14th & P Sts., 2-6774. Call today. You'll have that job soon, SUE. (Advertisement)
